Shame to Take the Money.

Samuel C. Seely, bookkeeper in the Shoe and Leather National Bank, New York, getting $150 a month, stole $354,000 in the early nineties, was convicted and sentenced to eight years' imprisonment.

Cornelius L. Alvord, Jr., note teller of the First National Bank, New York, at $5,000 a year, stole $600,000; was sentenced to thirteen years' imprisonment in 1900 and released in 1909, getting commutation for good behavior.

William F. Walker, treasurer at a nominal salary of the Savings Bank, of New Britain, Conn., stole $565,000 in 1907, pleaded guilty and received an indeterminate sentence.

George W. Coleman, a bookkeeper in the National City Bank of Cambridge, Mass., at $50 a month, stole $209,000 and was sentenced last May to fifteen years' imprisonment.

August Kopke, assistant secretary of the Fidelity Trust Company, Louisville, Ky., at $150 a month, was arrested July 11 last, on a charge of embezzlement. President John W. Barr announced recently that the company's surplus of $1,140,000 had been wiped out.

At Work on the Paris Pike.

Instead of beginning work at the quarry of Major D. J. Burchett, as heretofore announced, arrangements have been made and a large force of hands are now quarrying rock on the Hurt farm, preparatory to moving the crusher there. It was found upon investigation that it was necessary to build an expensive road in connection with the Burchett quarry and it was thought best, in order to save time, to begin work at the Hurt quarry first.

Just as soon as the crusher has finished crushing the Olympia rock now being crushed in Mt. Sterling and being used on the Mayville pike, the crusher will be moved to the Hurt quarry, which will likely be sometime during the present week.

Age Limit.

There is now a law in Kentucky that if a man is sixty years old he can be exempt from jury service, although his age does not disqualify him if he wants to serve. The Circuit Court sustains him if he owns up to his years and asks to be excused.

Fields Wins on First Ballot.

W. J. Fields, of Carter county, received the nomination for Congressman at the Democratic convention in Carlisle last week on the first ballot. The vote stood: Fields, 61; Hager, 49. The name of C. W. Mathers did not go before the convention.

Resolutions were adopted denouncing Canonism, Taft and the state administration, and approving the course of Senator Paynter in Congress and the Democratic platform tariff plank.

Speeches were made by Mayor William O. Head, of Louisville; Senator Thomas H. Paynter and others.

Judge Allie W. Young was a prominent figure at this meeting and made one of the strongest speeches ever heard in place before the convention the name of Judge John W. Riley, who was made chairman of the convention.

Accident At Track.

While exercising a Texas pony belonging to Thos. Scott, Albert Botts, the 18 year old son of M. G. Botts, of this city, was last week thrown and at first reported to have been killed. Upon examination it was found he had suffered a number of bruises as well as several ribs broken. As we go to press, though painfully injured it is thought by his physicians that he is on the road to recovery.

Harding Nominated For Governor of Ohio.

At the Republican Convention held at Columbus, Ohio last week, Warren G. Harding, former Lieutenant Governor was nominated for Governor and a platform to the liking of the "Regulars" was adopted. The "Insurgents" or "Progressives" were anything but pleased with the result and as a consequence the re election of Gov. Harmon is expected.

Bold Robber.

T. F. Henninger, a Memphis merchant, was marched five blocks along the main street of that city by a robber who kept him covered with a pistol. At Henninger's office the merchant gave the thief $250 for the return of a diamond stolen from him, and added $1 "for his trouble."

HEAVY STORM

Visits Jefferson County--Several Homes Wrecked.

The extent of the damage wrought by the wind and hailstorm in Jefferson county Wednesday morning continues to grow as meager reports from the cyclone-swept district are received. Telephone wires are down all the way to Lagrange and the Pewee Valley cars can only run as far as O'Bannon because of the havoc wrought by falling trees and rushing waters.

Two beautiful country homes were partly wrecked by the force of the gale, which is said to have blown seventy and seventy-five miles an hour. The front porch of the residence of E. M. Coleman, of the Home Telephone Co., at Maxey's Station, was torn away and demolished. Five giant forest trees were uprooted as though they were weeds. The roof on the home of Richard Collins, at O'Bannon, was lifted, the outhouses blown about and the trees in the beautiful yard uprooted.

DAMAGE MOUNTS HIGH.

The extent of the damage done to crops and buildings in the wind-swept zone cannot be estimated at present. A large tree was blown across the tracks of the L. & N. railroad at Pewee Valley and the Frankfort accommodation derailed. As far as known no fatalities resulted from the high winds. The principal loss will come to crops and buildings.

HAIL BEATS DOWN CROPS.

The severe rain, hail and electrical storm wrought further damage and ruin to crops throughout Jefferson county, especially in the eastern and southern sections, where the storm spent its force. Rain fell in torrents, accompanied by hailstones ranging from the size of a pea to that of a pigeon egg. Telephones were put out of commission in all localities, and Pewee Valley is entirely cut off from telephone communication with Louisville on both lines.

In the city the street car traffic was crippled, many fuses of the motors being blown by lightning striking the trolley wires or the water getting into the electrical devices. Other accidents resulting from the effects of the storm impaired the service. Lightning struck and set afire two dozen shocks of wheat on the farm of Lee Miles, near Fern Creek. However, the heavy downpour of rain soaked the earth and wheat stubbles and prevented the fire from spreading.

WHEAT DESTROYED.

About Seatonsville hundreds of shocks of wheat were washed into Chenoweth run and Floyd fork, and these streams rose so rapidly within an hour that it was feared that they would go on rampages. The hailstorm was the most severe about St. Matthews, Seatonsville, Fern Creek, Anchorage and Fisherville. In the neighborhood of the last-named town corn and tobacco were torn to pieces by large hailstones.

Dispatch.

A cable dispatch from Rome states that the American authorities have reason to believe that Joseph Wendling, the alleged murderer of Alma Kellner, fled to Italy, and the American Consul at Naples has requested the police to make a search for the missing janitor.

Governor Harmon Saves Ohio From Disgrace.

Judson Harmon has again vindicated the wisdom of the people who elected him Governor of Ohio. It is peculiarly pleasing to Democrats to note that the cup of public approbation is overflowing, for the Democratic administration in the Buckeye State was put in on trial and an opportunity thus given to the voters of that great Commonwealth to compare the Democratic administration with its Republican predecessors. That comparison is of vast benefit to the Democracy, but in a broader view the benefits of Governor Harmon's administration overspread party lines just as the splendid courage of his Newark policy has overflowed Ohio's borders. The press of the United States, irrespective of party affiliation, has joined with the people of Ohio in paying tribute to Governor Harmon, and his action under very trying circumstances has easily overshadowed all other national topics.

The City of Newark, it appears, had been severely liberal in its interpretation of the "personal liberty" statutes. In other words, the "lid was off" in Newark. A citizens' committee, with one of which every citizen has at some time or another been favored, had been organized in Newark determined to keep the saloons closed in strict observance of the excise regulations, to close all gambling rooms, stop music in concert halls having bar attachments, and otherwise enforce the statutes. The Mayor, the Sheriff and about everybody else, holding office, including the police department, were members in high standing of the "Good Fellow League." They believe in the open door, and catered more for votes than for righteousness. Newark, it appears, so far as it was governed at all, was ill-governed. The people grew to have but little respect for the law as the developments of the month of July indicate. The Citizens' Committee was making a brave stand against tremendous odds. The officers and members were singled out; not only for ridicule and abuse, but were frequently forced to defend themselves against personal assault. About July 1 the President of the committee was set upon by a gang and severely beaten. The committee hired some detectives to obtain evidence against those who were violating the law, and among those detectives was one Etherington, a boy from Kentucky. He was a fearless chap, and game. Cornered in the discharge of his duty he shot and killed a saloon keeper whose place was being raided. For that act—we do not know that it was an offense—he was arrested and lodged in jail.

The boy had not been in jail long when the mob spirit of the unlawful element began to assert itself. A rope and battering ram were secured, while official Newark looked on in indifference and inefficiency, if not cowardice. There was a raid on the jail. The doors were smashed down. The prisoner taken from his cell and dragged through the streets. His face was white, but he did not whimper before impending death. The noose was dropped over his neck, and the other end passed over the cross-arm of a telegraph pole. Then the mob lifted up the boy above their heads. The rope was taut, and he was dropped. In that way he died. That mob represented an issue in politics, at least in Newark. They stood for a total disregard of law. Up to that time they have been able to defeat candidates for public office in Newark, and public officers were somewhat fearful of opposing them.

Governor Harmon might have evaded any part in that dispute. He could have allowed the local officers to solve the situation, and had he assumed the usual roll of the conciliating politician, might have remained up in the Michigan woods away from the scene. Instead he cut short his vacation when notified of the outrage. He hurried to his home and thence to Newark, where he conducted a personal investigation. He suspended the Mayor and directing the dismissal of the higher police authorities. Charges were preferred against the Sheriff, and that official resigned. They're going to have law and order in Newark now. The stand taken by Governor Harmon has brought color to the cheek of every Buckeye with red blood in his veins, his manly, firm, immediate grasp of the situation has taken the country by storms. And yet he simply did his duty. Everywhere people are applauding the splendid work of that great big Democratic Governor of Ohio and they are calling—as he has called—for the punishment of those who committed and those who permitted the cruel death of Etherington. The recompense of the deplorable affair is that the young Kentuckian did not die in vain. Law and order gained tremendously in the sacrifice he made.—National Monthly.

To Deliver Blue Grass Seed.

Some thirty thousand bushels of blue grass seed which was sold by the independents of Clark, Montgomery and Bourbon about a month ago to C. S. Brent and Brother, will be delivered the first ten days of August.

A pool was formed by a number of farmers of these three counties to handle their seed. They were successful in making an immediate sale to Brent and Brother who were acting for themselves and several other parties.

The price realized was $1.51 for August delivery. The price was a good one for the seed delivered.

Blue grass seed now, clear for planting, for fall delivery is $2.75 and will probably range to $3 and over.—Winchester Sun-Sentinel.

Willson Appoints.

Two Louisville men received appointments from Gov. Willson last week. Dr. J. C. Mitchell was named a member of the State Board of Health and Peter Caldwell was designated as delegate from Kentucky to the International Child Saving Congress, which meets in Boston in September.

Mass Convention.

The Democrats of Montgomery county will assemble at the Court-house in Mt. Sterling, Ky., at 1 o'clock p. m., on Saturday, August 6th, 1910, for the purpose of selecting and instructing, if desired, delegates to attend the District Convention to be held at Mt. Sterling at 1:30 o'clock p. m., on Tuesday, August 9th, 1910, for the purpose of selecting a Democratic candidate for Congress to be voted for in the Tenth Congressional District at the November election, 1910. To Purchase Crab Orchard Springs.

A deal is on foot among a number of well known Harrodsburg capitalists to organize a stock company whereby it is proposed to purchase the famous Crab Orchard Springs, in Lincoln county, and make it one of the largest health resorts in the South. An option has been obtained on the springs and hotel property for $33,000, and it is more than likely that it will be taken over before the expiration of the ninety days allowed by the present owners.

Acting Cashier.

B. Frank Perry is acting Cashier of the Exchange Bank during the absence of John S. Frazer, who is spending his vacation on the Cumberland river. Mr. Perry is a very competent and efficient young man.

Rural Schools on Uniform Basis.

Rural schools of Kentucky are to be placed on a uniform basis, and the course of study will be the same in every school in the State. This was determined upon at a meeting of the State Board of Education. It was also determined to have a uniform certificate or diploma for the high schools of the State, and all diplomas in the future will be issued by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction instead of by the county authorities.

The Poet on Wall Street.

I remember, I remember,
The house where I was born;
The hallowed place where little lambs
Came peeping in at morn;
The playful bears and friendly bulls
Who wisely counseled me,
And where I bought at 88—
And sold at 23.
—Christian Work and Evangelist.

Do You Gamble?

Some people do by spending their time and labor and money by housing a crop of hay, oats and other farm produce, and keeping thousands of dollars invested in live stock housed in barns, and gamble with themselves that it will not burn. DO YOU?

Other people place their savings in a home and handsome furniture and then gamble on their luck that it will not burn. DO YOU?

Still others invest thousands in factories, mills, warehouses and other things subject to fire, and think they can, by careful watching, prevent a fire. DO YOU?

To all persons gambling with themselves against loss by fire, wind or tornado, we would suggest you give the matter careful consideration. Can you afford to take chances of losing part or all of your accumulations for a lifetime by gambling on your luck? We think not. See us before it is too late, and do not gamble with yourself.

A DISGRACE TO GEORGETOWN.

Last week during the fair at Georgetown, Mr. L. C. McCormick, of this city, was running his automobile from the fair grounds to town carrying passengers. He was getting most of the business, and this seemed to anger the Georgetown liverymen who were running surreys, cabs, etc. Mr. McCormick, who had a license to run his car, was ordered several times to stop running, and upon his refusal a number of liverymen jumped on him, pulled him from his machine, hit him several times across the head, cut his tires, pulled the signs from his machine and ordered him to leave town. Mr. McCormick got out warrants for the men and at their trial Saturday one was fined $5 and the others released.

Such an occurrence was a disgrace to the fair name of Georgetown and Scott county, and we feel sure that the good people of Georgetown condemn the action of the men who were guilty of such a low, dirty and cowardly trick.

MAY THEIR TROUBLES INCREASE.

Some days ago the Republicans of Ohio nominated for Governor Warren G. Harding, of Marion. The selection was anything but a unanimous one, and much soreness has arisen. In fact, Geo. B. Cox, the Republican Boss, of Cincinnati, has come out in an affidavit, charging U. S. Senator Burton with giving him the "double cross." He claims Burton agreed to vote Cuyahoga county for Judge O. B. Brown, which would have nominated Cox's candidate, saying the other aspirants were not to his liking, because "Harding was too weak, Garfield impossible and Longworth a snob."

Burton denies these charges and politics are waxing warm in the Buckeye State. The Democrats are jubilant and it now looks like Gov. Harmon will be re-elected easily.

OUR NOMINEE FOR CONGRESS.

Before our next issue there will have been chosen a Democratic Nominee for Congress in this District. The chances were never brighter than now to redeem the Tenth. All that is necessary is an aggressive and capable nominee and a united party.

Personally, we have no special preference. Our only desire is to see no mistakes made and our nominee elected.

In our County Convention Saturday, our judgment is there should be no strife or differences of any kind, and every Democrat who wants to be a delegate, should be made one; in fact, all Democrats of the county should be named as delegates to the District meeting and an old-time Democratic Convention held.

A GOOD APPOINTMENT.

Judge Allie W. Young has announced his intention of appointing W. Frank Horton, to fill the vacancy in the office of Trustee of the Jury Fund of this county, caused by the death of P. Bruce Turner.

There is no nicer gentleman or better Democrat anywhere than Frank Horton, and this appointment will meet with the approval of every citizen of the county, as everybody knows the duties of the office will be honestly, promptly and efficiently performed.

THE KELLNER CASE.

We are indeed glad to see Capt. Carney, of the Louisville police force, successful in his unrelenting search for Jos. A. Wendling, charged with the foul murder of little Alma Kellner, covering as it did, over eleven thousand miles. For weeks the Louisville Post has endeavored to make political capital out of this case, as it does out of everything else, and it would now seem like it is up to it to make good its boasted motto: "If new and true, not otherwise."

QUITE TIMELY.

Bro. Breckinridge's editorial in Sunday's Lexington Herald entitled, "Enforce the law, or exterminate the Indians," bearing upon the reckless use of public highways by speed-crazed automobilists, is certainly opportune and far-reaching in application.

STILL TRUE.

Waving the justness of his cause, the recent defeat of Mr. Bryan in his home State of Nebraska, demonstrates the truthfulness of the biblical injunction: "A Prophet is not without honor save in his own country and among his own people."

WANT A LOOK AT THE BOOKS.

Sometime ago, the Fiscal Court advertised for sale a telephone franchise to operate a telephone system in the county, outside of the city and no bid was secured.

The local company contends it has never been able to declare any dividends and cannot longer operate unless allowed to increase the rate it formerly charged country patrons.

The Fiscal Court, desiring to arrive at the proposition of rates intelligently, appointed Mr. R. G. Kern, the well-known expert and conscientious Accountant, to go over the books of the Company and report to the Court as soon as possible, the exact cost of maintenance, construction, etc. With this information before it, the Court can then act in such a manner as will be fair and just, not only to the people, but the Company as well.

The Company, through its President, D. L. Pendleton, of Winchester, consented to the investigation proposed, and agreed to defray one half of the cost, the county to pay the other half.

We are sure no one wants the Company to operate at a loss or furnish service for less than it is reasonably worth and an investigation, in such as the one proposed, should, and we feel sure will, satisfy all parties interested.

The Mt. Sterling Advocate under its new management is showing great enterprise and has recently issued a large illustrated edition setting forth the great advantages of Montgomery and the Gate City of the Mountains.—Carlisle Mercury.

Delivery of Groceries.

We take it for granted that our groceries and meats will be delivered but seldom, if ever, stop to think what it is costing us. The merchants' profits are less, our groceries are higher. The merchant loses some but the consumer pays for the most of it directly or indirectly. It is mighty nice, but can we afford it?

In Mt. Sterling there are fourteen horses used in delivering groceries and meats; each horse must have a driver, so the expense, at a low estimate, is as follows for one month:

Feeding 14 horses, $10 each.....	$140.00
14 drivers, $20 each.....	280.00
Shoeing 14 horses, $1.50 each.....	21.00
Resting 14 wagons, painting and buying new ones.....	35.00
One month.....	$476.00
One year.....	$5712.00

That would buy many pounds of beefsteak even at the present high price.

The disease we can't fail to see it. The remedy—not to eliminate, but to curtail. Instead of fourteen, why not let four do it all! Instead of Mrs. ——— having a wagon to drive furiously, frantically to the outskirts of town to deliver a 10c steak or a 5c loaf of bread, why not have her wait until the regular delivery comes, which will be in ample time for the earliest breakfast, dinner or supper! Three deliveries daily would be sufficient. The first one all finished by 6 o'clock, the second all finished by 10, the third all finished by 5:30. The wagons to leave all the stores as follows: First delivery, 5 a. m.; second, 8:30 a. m.; third, 3 p. m. The first delivery would be meats for breakfast, etc.

There would be no individual delivery, but all have the same, putting all on equal footing.

"I can't give this order unless you can send it at once" has disturbed every merchant—made him fuss at the deliveryman, hire an extra horse, or go on foot to keep from losing a customer.

If in some cases they can not wait for the regular delivery let them send after the article desired or borrow from a neighbor.

A fine to be imposed on every merchant who has any other than the general delivery.

I write this simply by way of suggestion and hope others will take it up, as it is a matter that concerns us all. It is entirely in the hands of the merchants.

Respectfully,
E. E. DAWSON.

No Chance To Win.

Judge O'Rear is said to realize that the Republicans are going to have the fight of their lives in the next Governor's race, even if they have a chance to win. This shows that Judge O'Rear is in touch with the people and is an astute and wise political leader. The Republicans have practically no chance to win and State officials and employees in the Capitol concede this to be true. It is only the Democrats who think the Republicans have a chance and it is just as well for them to think so for it will make the Democrats work harder and roll up a bigger majority for the nominees.—Frankfort Journal.

Voters and Taxpayers of Tenth Congressional District of Kentucky.

Listen to what I say, and listen to what I want. The right of equity of human democracy is as old as human existence. The Democratic party is as old as the Declaration of Independence, the American Republic and its Constitution.

This party has had the opposition of divers and various parties, and some division and dissensions of its own. It was in and on both sides of the great war of the sixties, but has enough patriotic philanthropy to elect of itself and the opposition—occasionally—a real Republican Democrat, such as Jefferson, Jackson, Douglas, Lincoln or Garfield to preside in chief over its political and social destiny. But it has at all times had too much of the real Democracy of equal chance and fellow fairness to stand for THIRD TERMERS; and for fifty years I have been working, sweating and toiling out tax cash that would—with such interest as I have had to pay for money—now amount to a quarter of a million dollars. And now I want the Democratic party at its August convention in Mt. Sterling to give me the nomination for Congress, and if I can't put the fat third term place hunter Langley—who has cost each voter and taxpayer in our District more than—dollars, without—pennies in useful and necessary return out of the ring—then I'll wait and let you wait another twenty years before I advertise for votes.

Sensational Suit Filled.

Suit was filed Saturday by Wm. Ledford against J. W. Hinson and his bondsman, the Citizens Trust and Guaranty Company, of West Virginia, for five thousand dollars damages for alleged assault. Ledford was arrested by Hinson on July 4 last, who was then a policeman of the city, for some violation of the City Ordinances, and alleges in his petition he was wrongfully assaulted by Hinson, to his damage in the above sum, for which he asks judgment.

The plaintiff is represented by Attorneys, R. A. Chiles and R. H. Winn. The case will come up for trial at the approaching September term of Circuit Court and will no doubt be bitterly contested on both sides, as considerable feeling has arisen since the alleged occurrence.

ANTS FIGHT SHAM BATTLES

In Times of Peace They Evidently Believe in Making Ready for Possible War.

The pugnacity of ants leads them to amuse themselves during their long intervals of peace by sham battles. They rise upon their back feet, wrestle, seize each other by the jaws, antennae or legs, mount on each other's backs, roll over and over, and engage in other antics.

No injury is ever inflicted in these combats. Neighboring communities of ants are prone to engage in wars which continue through weeks and months, and usually end with the annihilation of the weaker community. Mixed colonies are rare. As a rule, declares Prof. K. Escherich, no outsider, even of the same species, is permitted to enter the nest. The founding of a colony is a tremendous task, and many queens evade it by entering small colonies of other species, where they either become adopted or kill the natives and take possession of the workers' pupae.

The mixed colony thus produced becomes a pure colony of the queen's species after the workers have died off, unless the supply of slaves is maintained by stealing pupae from neighboring communities. This is done by a number of species which maintain permanently mixed colonies. The slave drivers adopt various tactics in their raids, some species marching in compact armies, others in scattering detachments.

The most notorious slave raider is the big red Amazon ant, a born soldier, with swordlike mandibles which are murderously effective in warfare, but useless for other purposes. So the Amazons are compelled to rely on their slaves for all household labor and building, the care of the young, and so on. They cannot even feed themselves.

In some species the degeneration produced by slave-holding goes so far that the masters are helpless parasites on their slaves. Though these masters are all males and perfect females, the worker class being no longer produced, they are wingless, grub-like creatures scarcely capable of locomotion.

Defending the Pumpkin.

Mrs. Anne Royall, who wrote "Sketches of History, Life and Manners in the United States," 1826, declared New England to be "the soil of human excrement." In Boston she declared, "the human mind has reached perfection." Sarah Harvey Porter, in her account of this energetic woman, says that all New England pleased Mrs. Royall. She even defended the New England pumpkin pie.

"As to pumpkin-eating," she writes, they do make pumpkin pies in the fall; but they have plenty of everything else. Let those who have not heard there say if their tables do not abound, and they are able to furnish them.

"But why is a pumpkin worse than any other vegetable, pray? It is not from necessity that the Yankees eat pumpkins, but from choice. Why may not a pumpkin be as good as a cynnabar or a sweet potato or an opossum? Pumpkin pies are fully as palatable as potato pies. Although I never eat either, I have tasted them, and I see no difference. The cost is the same, I believe.

Perhaps it would be better for other people to try the pumpkin, if their land would bring them. It may be owing to this article of food that the Yankees excel and are taking the lead in everything."

Mr. Cahill's Ideas.

Patrick Cahill, a son of the "old sod," who came to Chicago so many years ago that he has forgotten just when it was, became involved in a heated argument with some of his "back of the yards" cronies last night, and during his talk "put over" a few mixed-metaphor expressions. Here's a few of them:

"Sure, when the y-a-rds was built there wasn't any land out there. It was nothing but a lake out there, and divers couldn't find 't bottom."

"Yes, sor, Phil Aarmour and I came together, only I hate him here by a good many years." "Ye can say 'hwat ye please, but O'till ye, when the gr-a-ate American eagle fops his wings, beckons across 't sea—a with one hand to a bloody lot of furriners, and has-a-ids out to the loikes av thim with the other all 't good offices, an' raises his other fist an' yells 'God save the queen!' It's tyme for us dacent Americans to 'rise an' utter a protest—so 'tis."

"A-h-h! Don't let 'em be talkin' out about thim automobiles—then dom devil's wagons what roams without nuthin' to make 'em room should be pushed into a hole, and pulled in after 'em."—Chicago Journal.

Picking the Owner.

Patience—Here's an item which states that two women appeared before a Paris magistrate both claimed possession of a rolling pin. How do you suppose the judge decided the case?

Patience—Why, I suppose he gave it to the one who could throw it the farthest, as it would show she had more practice.

Dr. Crippen Captured.

Dr. Hawley H. Crippen and Ethel Clare Leneve, his stenographer, who fled from London after the disappearance of Belle Elmore, the doctor's wife, were arrested Sunday at Father Point aboard the Canadian Pacific liner, Montrose at the command of Inspector Dew, of the Scotland Yard. The identification of the long sought for fugitives by the English detective who had raced across the Atlantic ahead of the Montrose, marked the culmination of one of the most sensational flights in recent criminal annals.

Accompanied by two Canadian officers, Dew boarded the vessel at 8:30 Sunday morning and fifteen minutes later both man and girl were locked in their State rooms. Dr. Crippen is broken in spirit, but mentally relieved by the relaxed tension, the girl garbed in boys clothes sobbing hysterically.

After a brief delay, the Montrose continued the journey towards Quebec, where the jail awaited the pair.

Dr. Crippen is charged with the murder of an unknown woman, believed to have been his actress wife, and the girl is held as an accessory.

Dr. Crippen was standing near the rail talking with the ship's surgeon, when Dew came aboard. "Crippen I want you," said Inspector Dew quietly as he approached.

The dentist recoiled involuntarily as he recognized the man who addressed him, then blood left his face, his breath came short and fast and he gurgled incoherently. As he was being led away to the captain's cabin, whence he was transferred later to his own state room, he said gratefully:

"Thank God suspense is over, and I am glad Crippen's arrest has been accomplished."

Dew hurried to Miss Leneve's state room, where he found her, still dressed as "John Robinson, Jr.," on the verge of a nervous breakdown. She cried out hysterically and became so faint that restoratives were administered.

In charge of Inspector Dew, they will be taken back to England for trial on the royal line steamship Royal George, leaving Quebec on Thursday.

CLOTHES TOO FINE

BOBBY'S REASON FOR WANTING A FEW PATCHES.

Youngster Fall That He Was Altogether Too Well Dressed to Mingle with the Other Boys of the Neighborhood.

A small boy sat by himself on a stone wall. Behind the wall, and at some distance from it, was an ivy-covered stone house suggesting wealth and comfort. The other houses in the neighborhood were much more modest, and the group of children playing on the common in front of the stone house had the cheerfully soiled and ragged aspect of youngsters whose parents are not much given to providing fine clothes for their children to play in. But the boy sitting on the wall evidently belonged to the stone house, and his garments had a corresponding neatness.

Presently a lady came out of the house and moved down the path to the sidewalk.

"Hello, Bobby!" she remarked, when she reached the small boy. "You seem to be flocking to yourself. Anything the matter?"

Bobby looked up gloomily.

"I'm sick of it, Aunt Ellen," he replied, bitterly. "That's what's the matter."

"Sitting on a wall never got anybody anywhere yet," she said, pleasantly. "What are you sick of?"

"Clothes," replied Bobby.

"Clothes! What's the matter with your clothes? They look all right to me."

"That's because you're not a boy," replied Bobby, briefly.

"Perhaps it is," agreed his aunt.

"But what's the matter with them? You're quite the best dressed little boy in the neighborhood."

"Humph!" sniffed Bobby. He leaned toward her confidentially. "Don't you s'pose you could make mamma let me have a couple of patches—just little ones?"

"Patches? What under the sun do you want with—"

"Just on my knees," insisted Bobby.

"All the other fellows have patches, or holes. I've made holes myself in my knees, but it don't do any good. Mamma always goes and gets me a new pair of trousers. It makes you feel silly always to have a whole pair when all the other fellows have holes or patches."

"He kicked his heels up at her disconsolately against the stone wall.

"You can't have any fun when you're different from all the other fellows," he added.

"I suppose it does separate you from your kind," said Aunt Ellen, thoughtfully. "Perhaps we could persuade your mother between us if I stayed to dinner and made a business of it. It strikes me as being an important issue."

Bobby looked puzzled. "It's important to me," he replied, solemnly, as he climbed down from the wall, took his aunt's hand, and started with her back to the stone house.—Youth's Companion.

A Shipshape Sailors' Home.

When the founders of the Royal Alfred Home for Aged Seamen, an institution for British mariners situated in a suburb of London, drew up the plans for the structure they were moved by the laudable and unique desire to make the place as home-like as possible for the old "jackies." Accordingly the building was designed to give the effect as far as possible of an environment with which the inmates should be accustomed; so the dormitories were cut up into tiny cabins, just as on a shipboard, and in the place of the familiar iron cots in such institutions means were provided to the end that the old seadogs could turn in at night in bunks and stow their clothes and other belongings precisely as they would on board ship.

Both day and night the hours and half-hours are struck on a ship's bell in the main hall, and even in the messroom the atmosphere of the sea is retained. Then, too, the house governor is an old salt, a captain of 59 years' service, and his rule is entirely along nautical lines.—Sunday Magazine of the Los Angeles Herald.

An Embarrassing Question.

Mrs. Menlow was carefully explaining to her small daughter Margaret what she must do that evening. Company would be there for dinner and Margaret was going to be the possessor of sitting at the table. She listened very attentively, and faithfully promised to obey.

During the first part of the meal she never spoke, but remained quiet and thoughtful, but it seemed a long time to her before the dessert came. Finally a large dish was placed near her of which the contents looked most appetizing. For some time she gazed at it, and when no longer able to resist the temptation, she reached over and put her dainty finger deep into the jelly and cream, then licked her finger and continued to smack her lips with great satisfaction. Before the mortified mother could say anything, Margaret remarked:

"Say, mamma, is this the jelly which the cat licked the cream off, and you said it didn't matter, there was more cream?"

Heart Action Explained.

"Pa, what does the doctor mean by heart action?" "Practically the same as the lawyer means it to be in my case. When the doctor tries your heart action he sticks you for money, and when the lawyer tries it he sticks you for alimony."

A Compliment To Imperialism.

Sir Edward Grey, representing the British ministry, says that Mr. Roosevelt's speech on Egypt was "taken as a whole, the greatest compliment to the work of any one country in the world that has ever been paid by a citizen of another." Yes, and the objection is as to the particular kind of work complimented. There are many things that Mr. Roosevelt might have commended with unanimous approval at home; but when he selected imperialism, gave an unqualified endorsement of the colonial system, repudiated the doctrine of the Declaration of Independence and urged greater hardness in dealing with subject races, he not only misrepresented American sentiment but offended the sense of justice of a great many Englishmen. He endeavored to excuse the utterance by saying that he acted on that theory in the Philippines, but he did not do his country the justice to state that we give the Filipino a legislative body within ten years after the advent of American authority and that we at once set about educating the people so that they could more intelligently and more forcibly protect against and injustice which we might attempt.—The Commonwealth.

A Gradual Reduction.

An old gentleman accustomed to walking around St. James Park every day, was once asked by a friend if he still took his usual walk. "No, sir," replied the old man, "I cannot do as much now. I only go half way around and back again."—Housekeeper.

Women Harvest Hands.

Many hundreds of women assisted in gathering the harvest around Beatrice, Neb. They were lured to the field by the offer of board and three dollars a day. A farmer went into Beatrice looking for farm hands. Loungers in the town refused to work, and the farmer had to face the possibility of losing part of his crop. He went into a restaurant, and while waiting to be served, was struck with the idea of bidding for the waitresses for harvesters. He offered them $3 a day and every waitress threw aside her apron and went to the farm. They did such efficient work that other farmers sought women and they drew school teachers, stenographers and college girls as well.

Canadian Settlers Disillusioned.

Dissatisfied, discouraged, homesick and bankrupt, thousands of Amer. settlers in the Canadian Northwest are turning their faces again toward the land where snow and ice do not come in August and where a variety of crops can be successfully grown. This is the natural result of the blind rush for lands whose main recommendation was their cheapness. Pictured in the glowing terms of the land boomer, the semi-arid sections of Alberta have drawn poor but worthy farmers from their comfortable homes to experience the disheartening realization that time has neither mollified nor moistened the climate of that land. It is still a place where farming is fraught with difficulties.

Although the emigration of homeseekers to western Canada was larger this spring than a year ago, the tide has turned. Clarence J. Blanchard of the reclamation service reports that he has talked with a great number of settlers who are forsaking the experiment with Alberta irrigated lands to seek homes south of the line. Alfalfa and wheat have been their main crops, and these are not sure owing to the short season. The incognitional government, the high freight rates necessary to get crops to market and the long winter have been additional causes of discontent. It is reported that during the last nine months 15,000 settlers have returned to the United States from Canada, and the movement is increasing. These men have discovered that there was a reason for the cheapness of the land, but it has cost them dearly in cash and in hardship for their families to find it out.

An Ocean to Ocean Road.

One of the national dreams is a boulevard from the Atlantic to the Pacific ocean. If it should be built between Boston and San Francisco it would probably be in the near vicinity of 3,000 miles long and would pass through the cities of Buffalo, Cleveland, Chicago, Omaha, Denver to the Golden Gate.

Although no plans of definite have been made it has been suggested that the problem of labor could be easily settled and the cost would highly be commensurate with the result. At the outset it seems a mammoth undertaking; but in these days of scientific application of labor-saving devices, and knowledge of materials and construction it would not be so ponderous a task.

One of the best known and longest roads in the United States was the old Santa Fe trail, which extended from St. Louis to Santa Fe, N. M., established early in the last century. Another famous long road which extended through States was the Pony Express highway built across the Great Plains from Omaha to the Pacific Ocean, a track used later by one of the famous continental railways. The good road movement is spreading rapidly and is receiving Federal, State, County and municipal attention.

Hard to Explain Away.

The witty Champ Clark, discussing a late political scandal, said:

"Some of the testimony was bad, very bad; in fact, unanswerable. You couldn't get round it. It was like the remarks of the new parlor maid."

"This girl was a greenhorn. She didn't know the pretty daughter was engaged to be married, and when the pretty daughter's intended called after a week's absence from town this is what the parlor maid said to him:

"Miss Minnie you're wantin' Well, I don't know whether she's in or not. But if you're the young gentleman that was here last night till 12:30, and got caught kissin' her in the parlor, why, she ain't in to you no more, and never will be."

Capital Changed Back to Guthrie

Guthrie has been re-established as the capital of Oklahoma in practically all respects following the decision of the State Supreme Court. The only officials who followed Gov. Haskell to Oklahoma City were William Cross, Secretary of State, and Charles Taylor, State Examiner and Inspector of Public Accounts.

Their offices were kept open in Guthrie, although they themselves removed their headquarters to Oklahoma City. Mr. Taylor today ordered his office sign at Oklahoma City taken down and all work under him centered at Guthrie. Mr. Cross is seriously ill at Oklahoma City, but business will be transacted in Guthrie.

What Gov. Haskell will do has not been stated. The State Board of Equalization is in a quandary. It has held several meetings at Oklahoma City, and the question arises whether the action there must be ratified in new sessions at Guthrie.

Tables Turned.

A good story is told of Congressman H. W. (Hank) Palmer, of Wilkesbarre, Pa.

"Hank" has the reputation of being quite a story teller, and is at all times ready to spring something funny at the other fellow's expense, but it happened that this time Hank's joke was turned on himself.

It was back in the early eighties, when the scarf stick-pins were so much in style. Hank purchased a conspicuously large one, the design of which was a potato bug, green in color. When asked what it was, Hank would answer "An Irish potato bug."

It was up to U. S. Commissioner Honn, of the same town, who is a typical German, and very unassuming, to turn the joke on the funny Hank, who had been having a lot of fun with his Irish potato bug, till he ran across the little commissioner who eyed the pin very closely, but failed to make any remark about it, fearing that Hank had some joke attached to it.

Honn was about to walk away when Hank said to him: "Mr. Honn, what do you think of my new pin?"

Mr. Honn adjusted his heavy glasses, scrutinized the pin very closely, and asked: "Hank, vot is dot?"

"That's an Irish potato bug," said Hank.

"Vell, vell," said the commissioner, "dots der largest bug I ever see on such a small potato."

Shortage in Hay.

The most serious aspect of the summer drouth is the certain shortage of hay. The double loss from a light crop and unprofitable handling of stock because of insufficient feed is the lot of the stockman caught unprepared for an emergency. The extent of the June damage to meadows and pastures will later be felt even more keenly unless the parched land is supplied with copious August rains. Hardships on the range have been largely offset by the early maturing of the grass and the consequent rapid fattening of the cattle; but the short crop of grass which has now been made into beef on this account will not be available for late fall and winter grazing. Even with fall rains the growth can never equal that which would have been possible with moisture in the long June days.

Hay will be needed next winter on the range—it will be needed on farms too. The high hay prices of the last two years and the diminutive surplus this spring show what a hand-to-mouth course we have been pursuing in the effort to allow no feed to go to waste. More hay than usual should be cut this summer, or else some substitute located in the form of corn fodder, silage, beet pulp or straw. If stock goes from bare pastures into a severe winter the hardships of last season may be repeated.

Who's To Blame?

Speaker Cannon is out threatening the insurgents with a Democratic victory if they continue their opposition to the program of the standpatters. Well, the insurgents can stand a Democratic victory better than the standpatters can, but who is to blame if the Democrats win? The standpatters and they alone. They have caused the revolt in their own party and have given new hope to the Democrats. If Democrats put party success above their interest in the country they might hope to see the insurgents routed by the standpatters, for a victory for the standpatters would encourage the predatory interests to more arrogant demands. But the Democrats want reforms more than they want a partisan advantage, therefore they hope to see the reform element in the Republican party successful in the primaries. With the reform element in both parties in charge of the party organizations the people will be sure of some reform even if the Republicans win, and more if the Democrats are victorious.—The Commonwealth.

MESSAGE NOT PLEASANT ONE

Negro's Farewell Words Somewhat Disquieting, Though No Doubt He Meant Well.

When it is a matter of doing four-neyman humor, Irvin Cobb has been the rest of the fraternity hereabouts clinging to the life raft, says the New York correspondent of the Cincinnati Times-Star. He accounts for the fact himself by declaring that he was born in Paducah, Ky., and has been grinning ever since to think that he got away in time. One of the stories told of Cobb has to do with his early and yet largely unpublished life in Paducah. A large brunette person had been sentenced to be quite liberally flogged, and Cobb, imbued with innocent curiosity, determined to be among those present. It developed that the sheriff could not read or write, and it needed that useful life read the death warrant to the doomed man. Mr. Cobb volunteered. He threw all the horrifying pathos and tragedy he could into the lines, and when he got through, dashing the tears out of his eyes, he looked up to see the negro regarding him with a pleasant smile.

"I suah do take dis mos' kind ob you, Mistah Cobb," said the dinky. "You memmah when I used to work foh you-ah father? We seshabally did hab good times then, Mistah Cobb. I seshabally think this is a real favor, you comin' to read my las' words to me dis-way."

Mr. Cobb made a suitable reply. He had hardly conquered the emotion which reading the death warrant had aroused within his own breast. As he started to leave, he said: "Jim, have you any message for me to take?"

Jim thought for a time earnestly. Then a long forgotten text drifted dimly through his mind. "Yea, sah, Mistah Cobb, yea, sah," said he. "Dis here is de message: 'I go to prepare a place for you also.'"

ONE WOMAN'S GREAT RECORD

Thousands of Lives Made Useful and Happy Through the Efforts of a Modest Heroine.

A modest heroine who died in New York last week was accorded a few lines of obituary notice in the daily press, but the record of her good deeds during her long and useful life would fill a volume. This noble woman, who honored her Saviour and her sex, was Mrs. Elizabeth S. Hurley, superintendent of the Children's Aid Society's Elizabeth Home for Girls in New York city. She had been in the service of the society for 54 years, and in spite of her advanced age, nearly 80—was active and efficient until within a week of her death. Mrs. Hurley, in all the years of her service, cared for upward of 20,000 girls, endeavoring to teach them habits of industry and to turn them from evil courses. She sent out situations about 300 annually, trained for various duties, from laundry work and dressmaking to stenography and typewriting. Her influence and authority are to be held responsible, the officers of the society say, for the fact that 15,000 women have led useful lives who might otherwise have gone to the bad. This is the sort of record that does not perish in heaven, even though it may in time be forgotten on earth. It shows what a single life of consecration and devotion to duty can accomplish.—Christian Work.

Smuggler's Run.

An ingenious method of smuggling saccharin has been detected at Bregenz, Australia, where seven men were arrested for importing large quantities of contraband. When the Geneva express arrived at Bregenz the station master had a coach containing seven travelers accompanied from the express and detained for examination. He had been warned by telegraph from Zurich that seven smugglers of Geneva were in the train with a large quantity of saccharin. After a fruitless search the officials failed to find any contraband and were about to apologize to the seven travelers for their detention when one customs inspector accidentally kicked a hot water pipe in a first class compartment and the secret was revealed. All the hot water pipes in the carriage were in duplicate, differing in no detail as to length, breadth and color, but one set was of metal and the other set made of paper mache containing saccharin, which is about nine times as expensive in Austria as in Switzerland.

Has Written Memoirs.

Mme. Steinhilber, who recently held the attention of the world in a sensational trial in Paris, is now in quietude in England. She has recently completed her memoirs, which, it is expected, will meet with a great sale, both in England and France, owing to her intimate relations with prominent persons in the French republic. She is said to have fully recovered the beauty that has been so much marked and which she almost lost in her terrible ordeal.

Big Game in East Africa.

The increase of big game shooting in East Africa threatens to bring about the complete extermination of the larger mammals within about half a century, despite the restrictions applied to this form of sport by the authorities. The most appalling destruction is that of the elephants. The number of tusks annually imported into Antwerp alone represents the slaughter of no fewer than 10,000 elephants.

ITS GENEROSITY APPRECIATED

BLUE GRASS FAIR LAST YEAR GAVE BIG STAKE.

THIS YEAR WILL SURPASS LAST

Great Thousand-Dollar Stake for Saddle Horses Will Be Contested on August 10.

At no other fair or horse show in the entire country will be witnessed a show ring in any sense comparable to the splendid display that will be given at the Blue Grass Fair. The fair will be contested at the Blue Grass Fair at Lexington on Wednesday, August 10th. Last year the Blue Grass Fair association started the entire horse world by its generous offer of a stake with a guaranteed value of one thousand dollars in cash. Its generosity and its progressive methods were appreciated by horsemen to the extent of enlisting twelve entries. These included the very greatest and the best horses in the whole country.

The contest between these beautiful animals was watched with unabated interest by more than twenty thousand people. It required nearly an hour for the judge to form his decision and when the ribbons were tied first money was awarded to Edna Mae, the Kentucky chestnut mare which is regarded by good judges throughout the country as one of the greatest of her breed that was ever produced.

Yet another stake was last year's contest for this stake, the one which will result this year promises to surpass it. The number of entries will be larger, the class of horses will be fully as good, and additional interest will come from the fact that Missouri will send several of its best known horses to compete with the best of Kentucky can produce. Last year's winner is barred from competition, but the horse fortunate enough to wear out of the ring the purple ribbon denoting the champion will be worthy to take place along side of Edna Mae as one of a galaxy of stars that will be long noted in saddle horse history.

THE RICHEST FAIR

Stake a Marked Success Producing Excellent Results.

This Year the Stake Will Be Held on Lexington Day, the Second Day of the Fair.

The richest race ever offered for two-year-old trotting horses by a fair association was the Thousand Dollar stake given at the Blue Grass Fair last year. This stake was a marked success and produced an excellent contest. The winner turned up in Hillbrook Queen, owned by the Messrs. Smyser Brothers, of Louisville, Ky., and in the field that finished behind her was the noted Sea D., which after having won the famous Lexington stake at the fall meeting of the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' association. This stake will be renewed for the Blue Grass Fair this year and will be a feature of the racing programme of the week. It will be contested on Tuesday, the second day of the fair which has been designated Lexington Day. The probability is that it will have an even larger field than went to the post last year. While it will be the most notable feature of the racing program during the week, there will be a number of other races, both for harness horses and for runners, which are certain to produce splendid contests and to evoke general interest.

Running races will be made more of a feature than at any previous fair and large bets for each of the several events to be offered are assured. There will besides be a splendid programme of cup races offered for members of the Gentlemen's Driving Club. So that during each afternoon, beginning with Monday and including Saturday, excellent racing will be witnessed.

THE FLOREAL HALL

Fine Place to Meet Your Friends at the Blue Grass Fair.

The Floreal Hall at this year's big Blue Grass Fair, which commences the week of August 8 to 13th, at Lexington, will be one of its most attractive features. The hall is under the direct supervision of Mr. G. Norton Sharpe, who made such a success of it last year. The first floor will be given over to exhibits of farm products and to a special exhibit which the Kentucky Experiment Station will make for the benefit of the farmers of Kentucky.

On the second floor will be seen attractive booths decorated and occupied by prominent Lexington merchants. On the third floor there will be the exhibits of woman's work and table linens, provision being made for 125 different classes.

The entirely hall will be handsomely decorated; there will be music all day throughout the week, and men, women and children alike who come to the fair will find much there to entertain them.

ACTUAL PHOTOGRAPHS

Reproduced in Wonderful Five-Sheet Posters For Blue Grass Fair.

Probably the most attractive paper ever put out by a fair association in that which has been used this year to advertise the big Blue Grass Fair which will be held at Lexington the week of August 8 to 13. The paper is all made from designs copyrighted by the Blue Grass Fair association and the views used are taken from actual photographs made on the fair grounds in years past. The most prominent of these is a large five-sheet poster, showing a superb type of a Kentucky saddle horse. One of the best-known exhibitors in America is astride him, and the position of the horse and the pose of the rider are so natural, so graceful and so life-like as to attract immediate attention.

AUGUST 8TH TO 15TH

Herbert A. Kline's Aggregation of Shows.

This Amusement Company Has Played Most Important Fairs of the Northwest.

At the Blue Grass Fair at Lexington, the week of August 8th to 13th will be seen the famous Herbert A. Kline aggregation of shows, which has come to be known as the "best mid-way on earth." For some years past Mr. Kline has played all the largest and most important state fairs of the Northwest. This will mark his first appearance in the South and the management of the Blue Grass Fair is particularly fortunate in being able to secure him for Lexington.

There will be some twelve or fourteen shows in the Kline Carnival Company, all of them new, with features not before seen in similar shows, and all of them well worthy of patronage.

Wild West Show.

The big Buckskin Bill Wild West and Dog and Pony show is not only the largest but one of the most entertaining of the different shows. It abounds with exciting features characteristic of the vast West that obtained in the days when every man was a law unto himself, when savage animals and savage humans alike had to be accounted with and when features of our modern civilization were to large extent lacking in a vast portion of this country. In addition to the most excellent of the acts of the big wild west show is the introduction of a dog and pony circus, which especially appeals to the children and which adds decided features of entertainment.

Trained Wild Beasts.

The famous Rollins Trained Wild Animal Show is the peer of all shows of its kind in the country and presents a magnificent menagerie of jungle beasts trained to an extent that would seem almost incredible. Those who put these lords of the forest lions, tigers, leopards, hyenas, panthers and other dangerous beasts through their tricks daily and hourly take their lives in their hands, and this element of danger, risk and need of a thrilling and a feat of the most successful of the acts of the big wild west show is the introduction of a dog and pony circus, which especially appeals to the children and which adds decided features of entertainment.

The great European Flea circus with trained fleas performing their tricks at the direction of those who have taken infinite pains in teaching them, is as novel and as remarkable as any show that could possibly be witnessed.

A Model City.

In addition to these there is the famous Kemp's Model City, a wonder that no other carnival company in the entire country can offer. It is a modern, up-to-date city in miniature, acknowledged to be the best and most wonderful mechanical exhibition in the world. The fact that five hundred were required to build it is proof of the intricacy of its mechanism.

Then there is the Little Russian Prince, the most famous midget as well as the smallest man on earth. This diminutive dignitary is a human doll, twenty-five inches high, thirty-two years old and weighs only sixteen pounds. He speaks fluently English, Russian and German. He spent his boyhood in a cradle made of a cigar box. While he is so small that an ordinary man can hold him in one hand, he will nevertheless prove the most popular and most sought after man on the Blue Grass Fair grounds.

An Antithesis.

In direct contrast will be seen Elma aged twenty-one, and weighing seven hundred and thirty-one pounds, the human antithesis of the far-famed Russian Prince. When with him she appears on the platform the two make a pair that is a marvel to all who see them.

These are but a few of the shows which go to make up the famous Herbert A. Kline Carnival Company, which, under the personal management of Mr. Kline, will offer entertaining features the full equal of any ever seen on a fair grounds. These shows will be given both day and night throughout the week of the Blue Grass Fair, August 8th to 13th.

A great compliment was paid the Kline shows in that they were chosen to play at the big Elks' Reunion at Detroit the second week of July.

Kentucky Marksmen Defeat the Crack Indiana Five.

All eyes of the shooting fraternity in the Middle West were turned on Lexington and Indianapolis Saturday afternoon when the picked representative team from the gun clubs of the two cities fought out the question of the merits of their respective teams, each shooting on its own range and each absent team represented by the president of the club opposing it.

The race was between five men teams, each shooting at 100 50 yard targets, 16 yards rise, all amateurs and bona fide members of the club they represented. The race was conducted under the Inter-state rules.

The Kentucky five won by a margin of 24 targets, scoring out of 500 points 471, while Indianapolis wired in their results as 447.

The following are the names and scores of the Kentucky team and the positions they took on the firing line:

Victor Dodge, 92.
Jos. H. Kemper, 97.
Thos. H. Clay, Jr., 95.
J. D. Gay, 91.
J. J. Richardson, 96.
Total, 471.
The following was the Indianapolis team and their score:

Moller, 91.
Parry, 84.
Dixon, 84.
Wise, 96.
Hymen, 92.

Weather conditions for this Kentucky-Indiana contest were ideal.

The local organization averaged in a hard fought race the superb score of 471 out of 500, an average of slightly over 94 per cent. each. A feat never before performed on a Kentucky range by five amateur members of one club and done but few times elsewhere.

Mr. Kemper's work was especially brilliant with 97 to his credit and the same might be said of his runner-up, Mr. Richardson, who had but one less to his score.

Mr. Woolfolk Henderson, professional, was present and made a run of 99 out of 100, which was in keeping with his run of 187 out of 200 made last week on the range of the Columbus, Ohio, club.

More Trouble at Jackson.

Harry Eversole attempted to kill B. F. French at the Combs Hotel in Jackson, Ky., Saturday morning. Eversole fired five times, but the bullets went wild. French secured a revolver and attempted to return the fire, but the weapon would not work. Mr. and Mrs. Combs seized the men and later Eversole surrendered. He furnished bail.

L. C. McCORMICK

Assaulted By Georgetown Liverymen For Running Auto.

An attack of this kind, Friday by a number of liverymen of Georgetown, Ky. Mr. McCormick began running a public auto mobile to the Fair Grounds Friday morning and soon acquired a big patronage. This did not meet with the approval of the liverymen who were running wagons and carriages, so they requested him to stop, but he continued his business until they went to him the second time, this time to persuade him by force. They snatched the signs from his machine, cut holes in the tires, jerked him from the seat and struck him several times across the head, finally ordering him to leave town. Immediately after the incident, warrants for breach of the peace were sworn out against each of the men and they were placed under $100 bonds to appear in court Saturday morning. At their trial one of them was fined $5 and costs and the others released.

The incident was witnessed by a number of the best citizens and they all proclaim it an outrage on the good name of the people of Georgetown.

Davies County Suffers Loss of $1,000,000 From Floods.

Damage estimated at a million dollars to property and crops besides the immense damage to the properties of the Illinois Central and Louisville, Henderson and St. Louis Railways has been caused by floods following the unprecedented rain of last Thursday and Friday. Traffic on both the Illinois Central and Louisville, Henderson and St. Louis Railroads has been abandoned. In some sections the Illinois Central tracks are under five feet of water. Near Haysville there have been fourteen separate landslides along the Illinois Central tracks.

Degrees Conferred.

Mt. Horeb Chapter No. 21, Royal Arch Masons of Mt. Sterling, conferred the Chapter Degrees last Friday evening on a team of candidates. Hon. G. Allison Holland, of Lexington, the Most Excellent Grand High Priest of Kentucky, was present and inspected the work of the Chapter. Those upon whom degrees were conferred were Thos. Turner, W. T. Perry and Chas. M. Crane, the latter being from Salt Lick, Ky. The occasion was very much enjoyed by those present. Mr. Holland is an active, earnest and enthusiastic Mason and his worth is shown by the high office he holds in that fraternity.

Six Persons Injured.

As the result of a section of seats collapsing during the performance of John Robinson's circus at Richmond last week, five persons were seriously hurt and scores of others were scratched and bruised. The fallen section contained more than two hundred people and it is remarkable that some were not killed.

Laundry Sold.

W. Hord Tipton has sold his laundry to Sam Lee, a Chinaman. Mr. Tipton has not yet determined what business he will engage in.

Not What They Seemed.
"Your goose is cooked," cried one of two speakers. "And your cake is dough," retorted the other. But they were not enemies recriminating with joy at each other's misfortunes; they were merely two friendly cooks comparing notes of progress.

CAPTURED.

The Accused Murderer of Alma Kellner, the Little Girl Who Was Murdered in Louisville. Caught in San Francisco.

Dragged from beneath a sink in the washroom of a Third-street lodging house, where he had been hiding for twenty-four hours, Joseph A. Wendling, accused of the murder of little Alma Kellner, the man whose twisting and turnings have baffled the police for four months, was arrested in San Francisco by Detectives Burke and Ryan. Wendling admitted his identity, but protested his innocence of the crime. Shortly after the arrest Capt. of Detectives John P. Carney, of Louisville, arrived to learn that his 11,000-mile search for Wendling had been crowned with success.

JOHN G. CARLISLE

Dies in His New York Apartments Sunday Night.

John G. Carlisle, former Secretary of the Treasury, who had been critically ill for two days, died at his apartments in New York at 10:30 o'clock Sunday night of heart failure, accompanied by oedema of the lungs.

He was born September 5, 1835, in Kenton county, Kentucky, and received a good education. He studied law with Hon. John W. Stevenson and Judge William B. Kinkaid, and began the practice of his profession in 1857.

In 1859 he was elected to the Legislature and in 1875, after the Civil War, made the race for the State Senate, but was beaten by Mr. Benton. In the Spring the Legislature declared the seat vacant, to which he was then elected. He was re-elected in 1869 and resigned in 1871 to become Democratic candidate for Lieutenant-Governor. He was elected to this position in August of that year serving the regular term and in 1876 was elected to represent his district in Congress.

He was elected to the forty-fifth, forty-sixth, forty-seventh, forty-eighth, forty-ninth, fiftieth and fifty-first Congresses, and was elected to the United States Senate May 17, 1890, to fill a vacancy. He resigned to accept the portfolio of the Secretary of the Treasury in President Cleveland's cabinet in 1893, and entered upon the duties of the office March 7, 1893, and served until 1897.

When the silver issue was raised in the Democratic party, Mr. Carlisle was a pronounced gold advocate. After retiring from the cabinet he went to New York City where he made his home.

He enjoyed a large and lucrative practice in the East; which required his full time, and he never again entered politics.

An intestinal complaint of long standing, which wore down his vitality, lay behind the technical fact of heart failure. He was attacked last spring by the same trouble, complicated by an ailment of the kidneys, and for a time hovered near death, but his remarkable vitality triumphed when as it seemed it might even, in the illness which ended Sunday night. Burial in the family lot at Covington, Ky.

The Sense of Duty.
A sense of duty purifies us over. It is omnipresent like the Deity. If we take to ourselves the wings of the morning, and dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea, duty performed or duty violated is still with us, for our happiness or our misery. If we say the darkness shall cover us, in the darkness as in the light our obligations are with us yet.—Daniel Webster.

Waterproof Shingles.
Shingles are now made under a patented process from asbestos fiber and portland cement. Owing to the enormous pressure under which the shingles are manufactured, it is said that they absorb, when fresh, only about five per cent of their weight of water; and when exposed to the atmosphere for a year or two that hydration and subsequent crystallization make them absolutely impervious.

To Cut Plate Glass.
To cut a piece of plate glass it is thought a diamond cutter is necessary, but it is not. If the glass is not very thick it can be cut with a pair of scissors, a large pair being preferable. While cutting hold the glass beneath half a foot or more of water, and it can be cut any shape desired. A round piece of glass has been cut out of a good sized pane in just this manner. The scissors do not have to be extra sharp.—Success.

New Holland Tramway System.
The Dutch government has granted a concession to the Amsterdam & North Holland Tramway Company to build and operate an electric railway system in Holland. The route will be nearly 40 kilometers, running from Amsterdam north through Zaandam, Kromme, from Zaandijk to Wijk aan Zee, and Wormerveer to Purmerend. The Holland Development Company of Amsterdam will build the entire system.

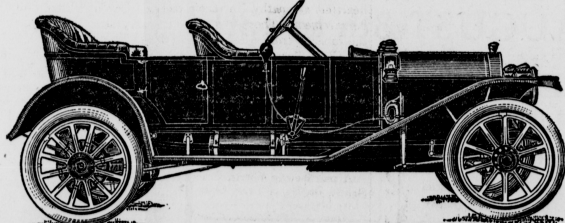

No Moral in This Story.
In June, 1898, a poor man called at the humble dwelling of a washerwoman on the West side. He said he was starving, and she gave him half a dollar. Nothing was heard of him until one day last week, when he called again and got another half dollar.—Smart Set.

DEATHS.

LITTLETON.—Rev. Oscar Littleton, died at Farnville, Va., July 31, in his 80th year. Deceased had been a member of the Virginia Conference of the M. E. Church, South for 40 years. He was the father of Mrs. Ben R. Turner, of this city. He had the confidence and esteem of all who knew him.

BLAKE.—Mrs. Thomas Blake, aged 83 years, died in Winchester on last Friday evening with a complication of diseases. Mrs. Blake is survived by seven children. The funeral services were held in Winchester Monday morning, conducted by Father Hellenmeyer, and the body brought to this city and buried in St. Thomas Cemetery. She was related to the family of Mr. Jas. P. King, of this city, was an estimable lady and a devout member of the Catholic Church.

FOX.—While out swimming with a party of friends last Sunday afternoon Thomas Fox, Jr., youngest son of Thomas Fox, of Ewington, suddenly expired from heart failure. He had apparently been in the best of health and his sudden death was quite a shock to his many relatives and friends. To know him was to like him. He was a jovial, big-hearted fellow, with a pleasant word for everybody, and was deservedly popular. He is survived by his parents, two brothers, D. C. and William Fox, of this county, and one sister, Mrs. Warren G. Stoner, of New York. The funeral services were held at the home on Tuesday afternoon and the burial was in Macphail Cemetery. To the bereaved family we extend our deepest sympathy.

TURNER.—P. Bruce Turner died at his home on the Grassy Lick pike Saturday, July 30, 1910, of heart trouble, aged 61 years. The funeral service was at the grave in Macphail Cemetery Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, conducted by Rev. H. D. Clark. Mr. Turner was in apparently good health when he was stricken, turning out the horse for his wife on her return from this city just a few minutes before his death. He told his wife on her return that his heart had been bothering him some since she had been gone, and went and sat down on the side of the bed and Mrs. Turner went to prepare dinner. She heard a struggle in about five minutes and hurried to his bedside and called to him but had no response. He died before anyone could be summoned, no one but his wife being present. Bruce Turner was a kind and loving husband and father, a kind-hearted, clever gentleman, well liked and respected by all who knew him. He was Trustee of the Jury Fund of Montgomery county for many years and was a competent and efficient officer. Besides his wife he is survived by eight children: Mesdames C. B. Stephens, Chas. H. Wilson and Gano Caywood; Messrs. Jas. S., Henry C., George B., Walter and Bruce Turner, Jr., all of this city and county except Henry, who lives in Illinois. He leaves one brother and one sister: H. Clay Turner, of Lexington, and Mrs. Jao. E. Cooper, of this city. To the sorrowing brother, sister and children we extend our heartfelt sympathy in their sad bereavement. Those who attended the funeral from a distance were: H. Clay Turner, wife and son, Lexington; Clarence Turner, Paris, Ill.; Henry Turner, Bushon, Ill.; Mrs. Frank Warren and daughter, Amelia, Parkersburg, W. Va.; Mrs. John Gelvin and Miss Leetta Myers, of Moorefield.

Mrs. Duff Entertains.

Mrs. Thomas Newton Duff entertained Saturday with a beautiful 12 o'clock breakfast at Hughes & Company's in Lexington, in honor of Mrs. James Patrick Steele, one of the season's charming brides. The guests were seated at a long table which was decorated with exquisite taste with three great bouquets of white roses and plumosa in the center and at both ends. Silver and cut glass bowls and platters and the beautiful little hand-painted place cards of bridal emblems in water colors completed the pretty scene. A delicious breakfast of many courses was served and the hours much enjoyed.

Quite a Puff.

We clip the following from last week's Farmers Home Journal in part:

W. Hoffman Wood, Mt. Sterling, Assistant Secretary last year of Montgomery County Fair had no connection this year to the regret of horsemen and visitors. Notwithstanding this fact Mr. Wood met the horsemen and did everything in his power to make them enjoy themselves.

He knows nearly every horseman in the State personally; knows the rules of both the saddle and trotting associations; is a good mixer and knows how to treat people. Mr. Wood stands equally well with the trotting horsemen and during the meeting just closed acted as clerk of the racing course.

Narrow Escape.

While W. W. Eubank and Laff Carmine were taking a large quantity of dynamite to the Hart quarry on the North Middletown pike Monday, where they are quarrying rock, the horse became unmanageable and kicked the dashboard of their buggy off. Luckily the dynamite was untouched and they quieted their horse without serious damage.

An Outing.

A most enjoyable meeting of the Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church was held at the beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. Rankin Whitsett on the Levee pike, last Thursday. The meeting was in the form of a picnic, all going out in a large wagon and in private conveyances.

The approach to this home is lovely, there being in front a beautiful lawn with large shade trees. The latch string was not only hung on the outside, but all gates were swung wide open. The host and hostess were out in front to welcome their guests as they drove up, and were received so heartily that it made them feel glad they came.

The usual program of the Society was carried out in the morning and about one o'clock dinner was served on a long table, out on the lawn, in front of the house. Everything good to eat was served, including spring chicken, old country ham, ice cream, pineapple ice, lemonade, half a dozen different kinds of cake, pies, coffee and mint.

After dinner the party enjoyed themselves under the shade of the trees, and in the late hours of the afternoon departed for their homes, after assuring Mr. and Mrs. Whitsett of their royal hospitality and thanking them for a lovely day and a most enjoyable time at their home, which will long be remembered by all who were so fortunate to be present.

Who Jumped?

Capt. Ellis, of the Maine Cavalry, was accustomed to relate an incident as an illustration of the coolness of the boys when in service. In one of his skirmishes, when men had dismounted, a young fellow named Kitchen spied a Johnny Reb crossing a field opposite. "Now," said Kitchen, taking deliberate aim, "you'll see that lad jump," and fired, but missed his mark. Johnny Reb cussed and returned the compliment, and Kitchen received the ball in the fleshy part of his leg. He jumped about four feet and ejaculated: "By golly, the wrong boy jumped that time!" — Confederate Home Messenger.

Bryan Defeated.

Nebraska Democrats have wrested the leadership of their State organization from W. J. Bryan on the issue of county option.

By decisive votes they registered their belief in his present policies after listening to an impassioned appeal from Bryan, who declared the liquor interests were in an organized attempt to secure political control of the State.

The minority plank submitted by Bryan was brief and his opponents declared "it was an effort to recede from his former radical attitude," but the workers against the county option plank were unopposed and stood firmly against it.

The attitude of many of Bryan's former lieutenants toward him was evinced in the speeches of several who addressed the convention after him. His reference to "assassins" of the party was frequently referred to, and as each speaker denounced his present position the cheers of delegates showed that the appeal of Bryan had been ineffectual. The vote by which his county option plank was rejected was not taken until after midnight. It was decisively against acceptance of the measure. Bryan made no comment on the vote.

DAILY FLIGHTS IN AEROPLANE

WORLD FAMOUS AVIATOR WILL SHOW POSSIBILITIES.

PROMISES WILL BE FULFILLED

Foremost among the amusement features which will characterize the Blue Grass Fair, to be held at Lexington the week of August 6th to 13th will be daily flights in an aeroplane by one of the most famous aviators of the country. No other one subject to crossing at all times the same amount of interest in the public mind as is the development of aerial navigation. The possibilities which it offers are so great as to be almost beyond human computation. Present prospects indicate that perfected it is apt to revolutionize the entire world. American aeroplanes have taken high rank among the aeroplanes of the world and American aviators have performed, not only in this country but abroad, feats which entitle them to be ranked among the greatest of those living.

Exhibitions Daily.

The exhibitions at the Blue Grass Fair will be given by a world-famous aviator and will in every respect surpass intelligently and fully any idea of the possibilities of aerial navigation. These flights will be made daily throughout the week of the Fair, so that visitors who come only for one day may rest assured of seeing them. Naturally weather conditions play some part in the extent of flights in aeroplanes. The management of the Blue Grass Fair has never believed in promising what it can not absolutely fulfill. It, therefore, does not specify any particular feats to be performed on particular days because of the realization that wind velocity and other weather factors may prevent such feats, but it can promise that except in the rarest of cases, four or five days, aeroplane flights will be made each day.

Race Between Aeroplane and Horse.

At least one day during the Fair a race will be arranged between an aeroplane and one of the fastest horses at the Lexington track. The horse will be given a start of five or six miles and the aviator will endeavor to catch him, circling in its entirety the famous mile track at the Blue Grass Fair grounds before the finish wire is reached. This will be a feature that has never been attempted anywhere else and is certain to prove a drawing card for thousands of people from all portions of Kentucky.

FAMOUS BLUE GRASS

The Reputation of this Region Extends to Many Lands.

Blue Grass Fair's Classification is Unique Among Works of Its Kind.

Lexington, Kentucky, is in the center of the richest and most famous agricultural and live stock raising section of the United States if not of the world. The renowned Blue Grass Region has a reputation extending to many lands, and of the interests with which it is particularly concerned the Blue Grass Fair, which commences this year the week of August 8-13, is representative. Although in magnitude and importance fully on the basis of a State Fair, the Blue Grass Fair, which is responsible alone to the enterprise of its stockholders for organization and dependent upon the support of the people of Central Kentucky for maintenance, does not try to reach outside the particular products with which its section is concerned and to which its further advancement may in some measure be due. Always bearing in mind the slogan "a Kentucky fair for Kentucky products," it omits from its classification certain breeds of live stock for which most State fairs make provision. Such omission is intended in no sense of criticism. It is rather a course adopted after careful consideration for what is believed to be the best interest of Kentucky and particularly of this section.

The classification of the Blue Grass Fair, introduced in 1907 and since reaffirmed, is unique among works of its kind. No other fair ever succeeded in separating completely and entirely breeding and show classes in its horse departments. The former are open to the three great American breeds, the only three with which Kentucky is in any sense concerned. The show classes are thrown open to the world, specifications of individuality being the only consideration taken into account. Competent judges have pronounced the horse show at the Blue Grass Fair the best in America. No where else can such a display of breeding stock be found, no where else both saddle and harness races are so well or offer contests so stirring and satisfactory to the lover of the horse.

Out of Harmony With the President.

Richmond Pearson, of North Carolina, former Minister to Persia, has declined to accept a Republican nomination to the State Senate on the ground that he is not in harmony with President Taft. In a statement Mr. Pearson says:

"I cannot run or stand or sit for the office in question for the plain reason that I cannot indorse or defend or justify or explain or extenuate or understand the persistent and obstinate insults which the actual President and head of the party has heaped upon the twelve hundred thousand white Republicans of the Southern States who honored him by their confidence and their suffrages at the last election. This naked and undeniable fact would make my position as a candidate not simply untenable, but impossible. So that my self respect, as well as my obligations to the party, force me to stand aside until a different state of affairs shall be presented."

"The rumblings in the Sixth district of Missouri and the catenations in the Fourteenth Massachusetts and in the Thirty-second New York district seem to have had no effect upon Mr. Taft and he will probably continue his fatuous course until the elections next November reveal the fact he has lost friends in our party and gained neither votes nor thanks from the other."

Hard Going But the Boys Are Game.

Nathan Levin and Max Brodie, two Paterson, N. J., boys, who started from New York for California upon roller skates several weeks ago, have written to their parents from Nebraska, telling of their experiences thus far in their journey. They started without money and up to this time they wrote had visited 108 cities and received letters from that many mayors.

"But we have had hard luck," Nathan writes; "we have slept on haystacks and on bare floors. We have been hungry; we have had toothaches, headaches, stomachaches and every other kind of ache, but we intend to be game."

Quaint Religious Ceremony Ends At Chicago.

A procession of 2,000 pilgrims, whose homes are scattered from ocean to ocean, among them some who came on crutches, in wheeled chairs and by train, marked the close last week of the feast of St. Anne, which has been in progress for nine days at St. Anne's church.

Simultaneously occurred the procession of lighted candles and the end of the novena at St. Anne III., the only other shrine in the United States possessing the sacred relics. At the latter place nearly 5,000 persons marched in the procession. Many wonderful cures are reported at both shrines, the lame and the halt said that they were made to walk; the paralyzed claimed they were restored, and the blind asserted they were made to see. Eighteen cures were announced at St. Anne's, Chicago.

Relics of St. Anne in the two American shrines were secured from the shrine of St. Anne de Beaupre, Canada. The pilgrimages are held annually and attract afflicted persons from nearly every State in the Union.

Democrats Have Chance.

For the first time in many years Minnesota, the rock-ribbed Republican stronghold, is tottering. "Insurgency" against Cannon and the tariff bill and conservation are said to be the stumbling blocks that make the fall elections doubtful.

Democratic House Seems Assured.

Election of a Democratic majority in Congress this fall is an assured thing in the eyes of Urey Woodson, secretary of the Democratic National Committee, who is in Chicago on his way home from Kansas.

"Even the stand-patters in Kansas admit that either Democrats or insurgents—it amounts to the same thing there—will carry that State said Mr. Woodson. "They are sorry Speaker Cannon ever came to Kansas, saying he had done more harm than good. The Democrats will be with the insurgent Republicans in the primaries, and if the stand-patters win in the primary then the insurgents will support Democrats in the election. The Democrats and insurgents have practically the same platform. The only difference between them is in the name, and I look to see them get together under the Democratic standard where they belong."

"It looks as if the Republicans everywhere are as badly split up as in Ohio and the Democrats were never better united. In Indiana chances of electing a Democratic Legislature and United States Senator are 100 per cent. better than two years ago and the Democrats did both things then."

"I think the Democrats are going to sweep the congressional elections and control the lower house in the next Congress. The issues? Well, the congressional committee will determine that, as it has control of the campaign during the off years. Chairman Jas. Lloyd, of Missouri, probably will be here within a few days to open headquarters. I understand the committee plans to conduct the greater part of its campaign from Chicago."

"Generally debilitated for years. Had sick headaches, lacked ambition, was worn-out and all run-down. Burdock Blood Bitters made me a well woman."—Mrs. Chas. Freitoy, Moosup, Conn. 1m.

A Shortage of Stock.

This is the year when farmers need plenty of stock to avoid waste, and at the same time stock was never scarcer. Much of the wheat that has been beaten down or is straw fallen for want of timely cutting could be saved if hogs were plentiful to turn into the fields. Unfortunately, but few farmers have any of consequence. Grass and weeds are abundant, but cattle to eat it are few in number. One farmer tells us that he is grazing export cattle at seventy-five cents per month and two-year-olds at fifty cents. This is no income on hundred dollar land but it is the best that can be done under the circumstances.—Winchester Democrat.

Defends Mountaineers.

Prof. Disney, of Berea College, delivered his lecture to the teachers of the Leslie county institute at Hyden, Ky., last week, called "The Mountaineer and Feudalism." Prof. Disney's lecture gave much information as to the descent of the mountain people and the first settlers here. He read many clippings that have been appearing of late in the New York magazines and branding them as malicious falsehoods and telling the people it was the newspaper writers that were slandering the whole of the mountain people, when there was never at any time as many as 5 per cent. of the people of any community ever interested or engaged in a feud and that the out-law and desperado that operates in the mountains cannot be compared with the thieves and thugs of the large cities and that 90 per cent. of the mountain people are law-abiding and God-fearing.

Valuable Record.

Capt. Louis Stodder, an officer on the Monitor, has given to the Navy Department the log book of the famous Civil War fighter, covering entries on the engagement with the Merimac.

Takes The Hide Off Mr. Cannon.

In a recent speech Congressman Victor Murdock said that "in the day of his power it was harder to get into Speaker Cannon's chamber than into the White House." Continuing, Mr. Murdock said: "Only the members of his cabinet had the entry, and who is in that cabinet? Why, Senator Lorimer, for one. Lorimer, whose election to the Senate is a national scandal. Who for another? Why Joe Sibley, of Pennsylvania, who takes care of the lubricating end of the Standard Oil Company's business. You remember Sibley. He wrote some letters to Archbold of the Standard Oil Company once. Then there is Lucius Litaueur, of New York, go-between for Tammany."

"Those are types of the Speaker's associates. This is the man of the people. This is the man who ran your Congress for you. There are many of us who can testify to the weight of his hand. What happened when a Congressman dared stand in his way? Cooper, of Wisconsin, did it and was bounced off his committee. Norris, of Nebraska, and Gardner, of Massachusetts, did it and they were lifted out of their committee places."

"I did it and what happened to me? It took Cannon some time to fix my punishment. He did not want to do anything that would make a martyr of me in Kansas. So he adopted the refined cruelty of taking me out of fifth place on my committee, which I had worked up to in six years, and put me down at the bottom again, and there I am now."

"Well, do you imagine I can kick as hard at the bottom of a committee as in the middle of it? It wasn't I he punished. I am not in Congress. It is the Eighth Kansas district that is there, and it is in the name of the people of that district that I am fighting Cannonism."

W. S. Lloyd Successful.

After a great deal of effort and correspondence W. S. Lloyd, the popular druggist, has succeeded in getting the Dr. Howard Co. to make a special half-price introductory offer on the regular fifty-cent size of their celebrated specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia.

This medicine is a recent discovery for the cure of all diseases of the stomach and bowels. It not only gives quick relief, but it makes permanent cures.

Dr. Howard's specific has been so remarkably successful in curing constipation, dyspepsia and all liver troubles that W. S. Lloyd is willing to return the price paid in every case where it does not give relief.

So great is the demand for this specific that W. S. Lloyd has been able to secure only a limited supply, and every one who is troubled with dyspepsia, constipation or liver trouble should call upon him at once. 4-&7.

Passing the Time.

The Scotchman could not find his ticket. On the conductor's second round it was still missing. "What's that in your mouth?" he asked. Sure enough, there was the ticket. The conductor punched it and went his way. "Ah, weel," said Sandy, in reply to his fellow passengers' banter, "I'm nae sae absent-minded as ye wad think. You was a vera odd ticket an' I was just sucken aff the date."—Success.

Squealed.
